Welcome to Astoria & Warrenton.

If you're here, you've already felt it. When you arrive, you will understand. It's that sublime mix of place and people we call Pure Character. It's about contrasts, charm, and the unexpected. Here, fishermen are poets, loggers drink espresso, Main Street welcomes both nouveau gallery and five n' dime, and our historic homes have their own personalities.

When you taste it, you'll want more.

ME

DID YOU KNOW?

The Astoria-Megler Bridge, which was formally dedicated August 27, 1966, is 4.1 miles long and is the longest continuous truss bridge in North America.

STEP INTO THE PAST

Astoria is the first permanent US settlement west of the Rocky Mountains and we have more historical markers than any other region in Oregon. Located at the mouth of the 1,200 mile long Columbia River, Astoria and Warrenton were important meeting places for indigenous peoples long before the arrival of American pioneers.

Six years after the Lewis and Clark Expedition arrived in the region and braved the winter of 1805 at Fort Clatsop, John Jacob Astor's American Fur Company established a trading post where Astoria now stands. This area played a central role in the course of U.S. westward expansion.

R Y

The Astoria Column is a monument to the natural riches of the Pacific Northwest and the people who settled there. Photo: Don Frank Photography

Occupied by both the U.S. and Britain after the Treaty of 1818, the area officially became a U.S. territory in 1848.

Large immigrant populations, particularly Scandinavians and Chinese, flocked to the Pacific Northwest in the late-19th century. They joined the colorful local fishermen and became central figures in the bustling fishing and canning industries that helped to make Astoria the liveliest boomtown between San Francisco and Seattle. These industries are still prominent in Astoria today.

Although the fur, timber, and canning industries are not what they once were, the Astoria and Warrenton region has demonstrated its resilience by also offering a vibrant, exciting tourist destination.

FILM HER

Hollywood has loved our area since the filming of the Fisherman's Bride in 1909.

From the colorful Victorian houses that populate the hills of Astoria to the local temperate rainforest and photogenic coast, our area has a variety of backdrops to offer film projects. The town experienced a cinematic renaissance in the mid-1980s with The Goonies and Short Circuit. The area continues to be an active location for movies, documentaries, TV and commercials.

The Oregon Film Trail is a statewide network of filming locations, including 4 signs in Astoria and Warrenton.

Dexter – Astoria is seen for just a brief part of the series finale.

Visitors can experience their favorite films first-hand at several public landmarks. The jail seen in The Goonies from which the Fratelli family escaped is now home to the Oregon Film Museum, which provides information and stories for about 300+ movies filmed in the state. The interactive exhibits will entertain all visitors, from the film novice to the movie geek! Join with other film-enthusiasts celebrating Oregon-made movies in June.

STEP INTO THE GREAT OUTDOORS

We invite you to escape into the natural beauty of the rugged terrain of the Pacific Northwest.

VISIT THE BEACH

The Oregon Coast is The People's Coast and is legally designated as publicly accessible space for you, me and everyone else. Enjoy the sandy beaches and tumbling surf in Fort Stevens State Park or Sunset Beach. Play it safe at the beach – find helpful reminders at VisitTheOregonCoast.com/Beach-Safety.

ASTORIA'S RIVERFRONT TROLLEY

Ride our restored 1913 trolley along a scenic 2.6 miles of the Columbia River. Catch the trolley from one of a dozen shelters between Basin and 39th Streets. For current schedule and real-time location information, visit Old300.org.

ASTORIA RIVERWALK

Wander along the six miles of pathway stretching from the Port of Astoria to Tongue Point. Ready for a challenge? Learn more about the trails that climb into Astoria's neighborhoods by visiting AstoriaParks.com.

YOUNGS RIVER WATERFALL

Located about six miles from Fort Clatsop, enjoy a drive through the country and short walk to view Youngs River Falls, a 54-foot waterfall which was noted by a member of Lewis and Clark's Corps of Discovery.

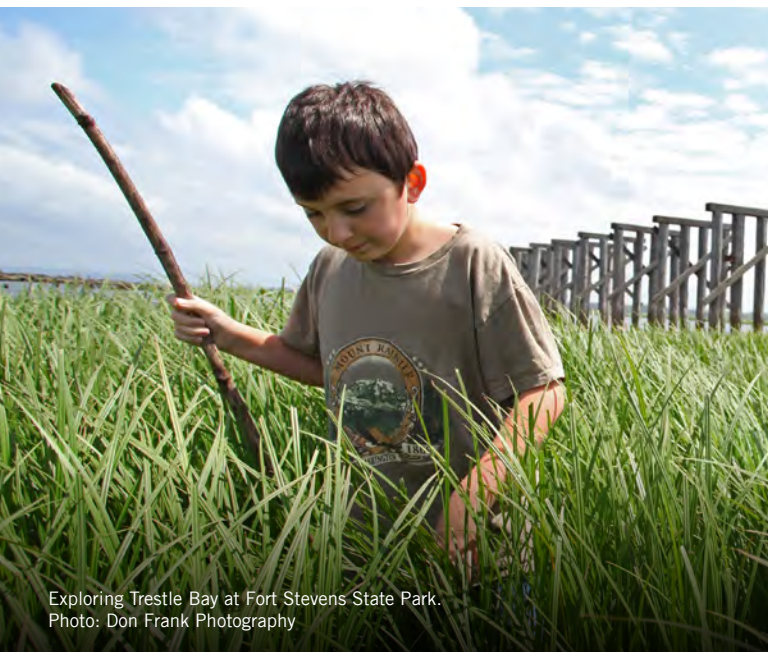

FISHING

The Columbia River estuary provides some of the best fishing in the world for salmon, sturgeon, bottom fish, crab and more. Numerous guides and charters can help you plan your ultimate experience.

DID YOU KNOW?

The Astoria Column was dedicated in 1926 and is a 125-ft memorial depicting the history of the area in a mural located on the highest point in Astoria.

TRAIL

Exploring Trestle Bay at Fort Stevens State Park.

Walk in the footsteps of Lewis & Clark or wander our trails with unique views around every corner.

Nestled where the Columbia River meets the Pacific Ocean, the cities of Astoria and Warrenton are rich with history and exquisite scenery on Oregon's North Coast. With dozens of outdoor spaces to choose from, you'll find most of our trails are suitable for beginners and can be a great way to spend an hour or most of the day. When you explore, be courteous to others and keep the trails better than you found them for the next person to enjoy.

S

BE PREPARED FOR THE WEATHER

A visit to Astoria and Warrenton can be full of surprises. Each season brings with it a change in scenery as birds migrate in and out of the area, foliage drops or blooms, and the wildlife is dynamic. Any time of year is great for exploring the trails, if you are prepared for how weather may impact the trail surface and you've dressed appropriately for the rain, wind or sun.

LEWIS AND CLARK NATIONAL HISTORICAL PARK

The Lewis and Clark National Historical Park offers several trails for visitors looking for a short walk or an all-day outing. Hike the 6.5-mile (one-way) Fort to Sea Trail that offers a variety of terrain levels of difficulty. From Netul Landing, visitors can enjoy scenery on the 1-mile walk to the park's visitor center or launch your kayak into the Lewis and Clark River. Trail maps are available on the park website.

GNAT CREEK HATCHERY

Gnat Creek Hatchery, 18 miles east of Astoria, offers three nature trails winding through the forest with views of Gnat Creek as it falls nearly 2,000 feet over several small waterfalls in just four short miles where it flows into the Columbia.

WARRENTON TRAILS

The Skipanon River Loop Trail offers abundant wildlife viewing along the levees and a peek into the commercial fishing fleet at the marina. The Warrenton Waterfront Trail is mostly-paved and follows both the Skipanon and Columbia Rivers from downtown Warrenton to the Hammond Marina. Your dog will also enjoy the off-leash dog area at Carruthers Park adjacent to the Trail.

Earn a glass after visiting breweries on the North Coast Craft Beer Trail.

NORTH COAST CRAFT BEER TRAIL

Oregon's North Coast is bottled up with secrets, and travelers are invited to find them by toasting their way along the North Coast Craft Beer Trail. From bitters with body to carbonated, complexities, each one of the trail's breweries offers an assortment of unique flavors.

TAKE HOME YOUR OWN COLLECTOR'S GLASS

The craft brewing scene is going strong and the Trail is updated each year. Pick up a brochure at any participating brewery or local visitor center, or sign up for the digital passport at TravelAstoria.com/Experience. Beer lovers who visit the current required number of stops can redeem their completed form at the Visitor Center in Astoria, Seaside or Cannon Beach in exchange for a NCCBT collector's glass.

SOUL, CALMED

Enjoy the comfort of award-winning boutique hotels, charming bed and breakfasts, or scenic campgrounds. From family vacations, romantic getaways or business retreats, Astoria and Warrenton provide the perfect accommodations.

Looking north from the top of the 11th Street pigeon steps.
