

Samantha Cho is a graduate of Creighton University, where she graduated cum laude with a degree in Environmental Sciences and minor in Behavioral and Cognitive Neuropsychology on the Pre-Law track. While in school, she helped lead a student-run climate change group, interned at an environmental consulting firm, and was the president of her sorority, Gamma Phi Beta. Prior to attending law school, Samantha worked for a law firm in Denver, and as a K-12 substitute teacher. She is interested in pursuing Environmental, Intellectual Property, or Green Business Law, and wants to use her law degree and passion for environmental stewardship to help future generations.

Kevin Gomezlizarraga graduated from the University of California – San Diego, where he received a degree in Political Science. Before law school, he served in the United States Marine Corps for six years, most recently aboard Marine Corps Recruit Depot San Diego. He has volunteered as a mentor for Big Brothers Big Sisters and worked as a swim instructor at the YMCA. He wishes to study human rights and immigration law to serve and guide migrant families and displaced refugees.

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/kevin-gomezlizarraga-6893a677>

Nathan Rice is a graduate of Oregon State University, where he majored in Mathematical Economics and minored in Finance and Statistics. While in school, he was involved in the Pre-Law Club and the Asian Pacific American Student Union, and has worked teaching computer science camps for children, and as a tutor. Nathan moved to Oregon in elementary school, and is looking forward to helping his community and helping others with a career in intellectual property, trusts and estates, or green business.

Claire Malone is a graduate of Indiana University, where she received degrees in Informatics and Environmental & Sustainability Studies. She has worked as the lead intern for Black Women & Technology, and as an undergraduate research and teaching assistant. She was involved in student government as the Title IX Director and served on a student advisory board for an IU Vice Provost's office. After law school, she wishes to use her legal and regional planning background to help alleviate environmental harms in marginalized communities.

George Blankley is a graduate of the University of Northern Colorado, where he received a degree in Political Science with minors in legal studies and Africana studies. He grew up in Southern California and lived there prior to moving to Eugene for law school. Before attending law school, he worked as a compliance analyst for a recovery services company and as the head coach for a youth soccer club. While in school, he was the Vice President of his university's Law Club, and was involved leadership in his fraternity, Pi Kappa Phi. His law school interests include public policy, business law, and immigration law. After law school, he wishes to work as a public servant, and advocate for marginalized communities. <http://linkedin.com/in/george-b-0970a6b8>